

Preparing for the Year of Luke

Pope Francis has referred to the Gospel of Luke as “the Gospel of Mercy” – and, appropriately for the Jubilee Year of Mercy, the Gospel readings we will hear most Sundays of 2016,

Contemporary Christianity would be startlingly different without Luke’s Gospel. We would have far fewer Marian devotions and altered Christmas traditions. We’d be without some very popular hymns and familiar works of art. We might even have a far less inclusive church, with less emphasis on serving the poor and less awareness of God’s mercy.

This series of three workshops will explore Luke’s Gospel in depth, preparing for the 2016 Year C of the Lectionary. Each workshop can be taken independently.

August 29, Reading the Gospel of Luke

October 24, Praying the Gospel of Luke

January 23, Living the Gospel of Luke

All workshops are from 9a.m. to 4p.m.
